

INDIANA STATE SENTINEL.

WILLIAM J. BROWN, Editor.

INDIANAPOLIS:

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 2, 1852.

"No North, no South, no East, no West under the Constitution; but a sacred maintenance of the common bond and true devotion to the common brotherhood."—Franklin Pierce.

National Democratic Nominations.

FOR PRESIDENT,
FRANKLIN PIERCE, of New Hampshire.
FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM R. KING, of Alabama.

Democratic Electoral Ticket.

STATE AT LARGE,
JOHN PETTIT, of Tippecanoe County.
JOHN H. LANE, of Dearborn County.
DISTRICT ELECTORS,
First—BENJ. R. EDMONSTON, of Dubois County.
Second—JAMES S. ATHON, of Clark County.
Third—JOHN A. WENDRICKS, of Jackson County.
Fourth—EENEZER DUMONT, of Dearborn Co.
Fifth—WILLIAM GROSE, of Henry County.
Sixth—WILLIAM J. BROWN, of Marion County.
Seventh—OLIVER P. DAVIS, of Vermillion County.
Eighth—LORENZO C. DOUGHERTY, of Boone Co.
Ninth—NORMAN EDDY, of St. Joseph County.
Tenth—REUBEN J. DAWSON, of DeKalb County.
Eleventh—JAMES F. McDOWELL, of Grant County.

Democratic State Ticket.

FOR GOVERNOR,
JOSEPH A. WRIGHT, of Parks County.
FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR,
ASHBEE F. WILLARD, of Floyd County.
FOR SEY RETARY OF STATE,
NEHEMIAH DAYDEN, of Rush County.
FOR AUDITOR OF STATE,
JOHN P. DUNN, of Perry County.
FOR TREASURER OF STATE,
ELIJAH NEWLAND, of Washington County.
FOR JUDGES OF THE SUPREME COURT,
WILLIAM Z. STUART, of Cass County.
ANDREW DAVIDSON, of Deaot County.
SAMUEL E. PERKINS, of Marion County.
ADDITION L. ROACHE, of Parks County.
FOR REPORTER OF THE SUPREME COURT,
HORACE E. CARTER, of Montgomery County.
FOR CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT,
WILLIAM B. BEACHE, of Boone County.
FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
WM. C. LARABEE, of Putnam County.

Campaign Sentinel.

The Weekly State Sentinel will be furnished from now till after the Presidential election at the following rates: Six copies for.....$2.00
Ten copies for.....3.00
Twenty copies for.....5.00
Thirty-five copies for.....10.00
Fifty copies for.....15.00

Democratic Conventions.

The Marion county Democratic Convention will be held on next Saturday, 7th inst.
The Congressional Convention for this Congressional District, will be held in this city on Saturday, August 21st.
A candidate for Circuit Judge will be nominated at the meeting of the Congressional convention.

Getting Ashamed.

The attack of the Whig press and press on the military services of Gen. Pierce—his charges of cowardice, &c.—has brought to his defence several officers of the regular army, by whom he was universally believed as a gallant soldier and high toned gentleman. Among them we noticed a long communication from Major Winslow, of the old line, in which he does full and ample justice to the skill and bravery of General Pierce on the field of battle, as well as to his talents as a statesman and his patriotism as an American citizen. The Whig press, evidently are finding that the "feinting" story is reacting and to check the force of this reaction the New York Evening Journal, one of the most able and sagacious Whig papers in the Union, publishes the official reports, with the following remarks, which we commend to the growling fainting Whigs of this vicinity.

GEN. PIERCE'S MILITARY CAREER.

In publishing the account of General Pierce's participation in the Mexican War, which we give in another column, we are not desirous of either to ridicule the Democratic candidate's misfortune or to disparage his courage. We hold such personalities in a political contest to be an unwise, ungenerous and unworthy species of warfare. We do not doubt that his injuries were really the cause of his fainting; that his absence could be satisfactorily accounted for, that his courage deserves no impeachment, and that had not unfortunate circumstances prevented, he would have taken a gallant and honorable part in the various actions. His volunteering to go to Mexico is an evidence of it.

Gen. Scott's administration of the civil government of Mexico, after the conquest of the country by the power of his army, does not appear to us to be dwelt on at sufficient length and with sufficient emphasis, for we certainly consider that administration, as it is considered by all who are familiar with its history, and as it will be considered by posterity, one of the greatest and noblest instances on record of prudent, wise, energetic, and successful statesmanship.—Louisville Journal.

Among other evidences of the wisdom of Gen. Scott's administration of the civil affairs of the city of Mexico, Major Ripley, in his history of the Mexican War, states that the door was thrown open to gambling, and licenses were granted, at the rate of one thousand dollars a month for one set of tables, and that "officers and soldiers in great numbers were attendants at the different halls, which varied in degree as much as the talents and capitalists of their keepers."

The naturalized citizens everywhere are turning from the devices of a sham Democracy, and will cast a large vote for Scott. The representative of principles most favorable to their interests.—West Republic.
The principles are set out in his Read letter, and the "American" paper. The total exclusion of all foreigners from all participation in the affairs of government, except earned by one year's service in the army or navy. Gen. Scott enforces these principles by the following remarks, which we copy from the "American" correspondence:

"We think we are liberal enough, when, in providing for America, we leave the door of admission open to the children of foreigners, now abroad, who may hereafter be born here, without allowing their fathers to come and help to govern us. We, who alone have any right to think on the subject, and who can best govern ourselves, and the better such government in the meantime, so much the better for the foreigners who may hereafter come among us, and for their American born children."

Perhaps some of the organs of Gen. PIERCE can inform us whether he has never changed any of his opinions. We learn that he once opposed the election of Gen. Jackson, and afterwards supported him. He opposed all appropriations for rivers and harbors by his votes in Congress; and we confess we should be glad of some assurance that he has renounced his errors on that subject.—Albany Evening Journal.

The first vote ever cast by Frank. Pierce, for President, was for Gen. Jackson in 1828. In 1824 his father was in favor of Mr. Crawford, who was then regarded by many, as the regular candidate of the Republican party, having received the nomination of the Republican members of Congress in canon. Frank at that time may have partaken of the feelings of his father, but he was not old enough to vote.

The Hon. James E. Belfer, of Alabama, until very recently a highly influential member of the Democratic party, has withdrawn his name from the Union electoral ticket and declared himself strongly for Scott.—Madison Banner.
James E. Ealer was one of the influential Whigs in 1848. Can't you give us some more recent converts.

Bring out the Banners.
We understand that a certain wooden-utemg vendor of pills, a recent importation from the land of blue lights, at great trouble and expense, had prepared a transparency to be paraded through the streets of Indianapolis, on which was painted Capt. Cain and the Editor of the Sentinel. But the transparency was not brought out. Wiser counsels prevailed. We hope our Democratic friends will not retaliate.
It is due to the respectable portion of the Whig party to say, that the efficiency of this wooden-utemg gentleman, did not meet their approbation. He was rebuked by the old and respectable members of the party. So far as the Editor of the Sentinel is concerned, this new doped importation of Whiggery, may paint him from the time he entered Indiana with an axe on his shoulder, up to this present moment. He will not be the least annoyed. He has often painted Whiggery, and if God spares his life he will continue to do so; and if in turn may paint him to their heart's content. So far he has not made it a very profitable business.

Fair Exchange.
Two men of about the same character, have lately changed sides in politics in this State. Thos. D. Walpole, of Hancock, has left the Whig party and joined the Democrats. As a fair offer, Dan. Kalo, of Switzerland county, has left the Democrats and joined the Whigs.
But it does not end here. We see the cards of three good substantial citizens, near neighbors of Walpole, in Hancock county, who declare they can no longer vote with the Democrats, and consequently go for Scott. They are worth a dozen Walpoles.—Brookville American.
Kalo has not acted with the Democratic party for years. He opposed the election of Robinson for Congress at the last election and is fixing himself to run as an independent candidate this year. Two of the comers in Hancock county voted for Gen. Taylor 1848. Mr. Seep, who is a respectable man, dislikes Walpole, but will vote for Pierce and King. As to Bill Franklin, if Clarkson calls him, a "substantial citizen," he has changed his mind on Temperance. That's all.

AGAIN AHEAD OF THE TIMES.—At dinner on Saturday, Sloan treated his boarders to some delicious Melons—the very first lot in the market. Green corn has been upon the table every day for more than a week, and everything else seasonable. Boarders at the Capital House can be distinguished in the street by their comfortable, well-to-do appearance. It is said that the landlord is determined to make each of his boarders as portly as himself, and if he continues his present efforts, we are inclined to think he will succeed.

Missouri.
The election takes place to-day in Missouri, for Governor, members of Congress, and other important offices. Our unhappy divisions in that State have, for several years past, given the enemy the victory ground. But as the same state of things existed in 1848, and she yet gave Cass a large majority at the Presidential election, we, reasoning from analogy, see no danger of a different result this fall.

CONNECTICUT.—The New Haven Register, a safe prognosticator of results, as it is a sound and able Democratic journal, holds this language:
"Connecticut is as sure for Pierce and King as the day comes. The Democratic majority over the Whigs in this State, at the last election, was about 3,000 on a full vote—and if the Whig cause has been strengthened in Connecticut by the nomination of General Scott, we have got something to learn—that's all. Put down Connecticut as six for Pierce and King."

IN 1848, the neutral press of the country was all for Gen. Taylor. The sporting, betting men put up their money freely on "Old Zack." Now, the neutral press, and the betting men are for Pierce. The neutral press always steer for the harbor of success, that they may thereby prove their great forecast and judgment in predicting political events; and the sporting men put up their money on the winning candidate. Men of that class, who won their thousands on Taylor, are now trying without much success, to get bets on Pierce and King.

THE eloquent Tom Marshall, who stumped Kentucky in 1844 for Polk and in 1848 for Cass will stump this year for Scott and Graham. He is going in for a Harrison majority.—Brookville American.
Tom got drunk on hard cider in 1840, and never got sober for two years. When he became a sober man and a temperance lecturer, he thought as a sober man and became a Democrat. He has now returned to his cups and the poor inebriate is again wallowing in the mire of Whiggery.

Col. John McCrea, of Lawrence county, has been appointed special office agent for the States of Indiana and Illinois.—Madison Banner.
What has become of Matthews? Has he been removed again?
Among the prominent Whig speakers at Lundy's Lane, was John H. Bradley of Indiana. John pledged the State for Scott.

The Whig Press Against Scott.

MORE FIRES IN THE REAR!

The Herald of the Union, edited by the Rev. Ch. Ed. Lester, Consul to Genoa, under Harrison's, says:
"The nomination of Gen. Scott by the Whig Convention at Baltimore, was the most disgraceful insult ever offered to the public opinion of a civilized nation. Throughout the United States, among all honorable and patriotic Whigs, a sentiment of profound regret and mortification has been expressed. No intelligent man doubts that the Whig party has ceased to exist. Its life has been terminated by an act of suicide so contemptible, underserving of public commemoration, that the best friends of the deceased will ever rejoice in witnessing the funeral obsequies. It is no doubt true, that common-place men, whose vision was not strong enough to see the eagle in his flight, have tried to check the grandeur of his soaring, and they have pretended that Webster did not possess the elements of popularity. With-out exception those who pretend to be his friends, having pleaded in excuse for the nomination of his peaceoek rival, that Mr. Webster was not an available candidate, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode of talking, the public have already had sufficient opportunity to judge of. Mr. Webster's whole career, although they have lost no occasion of exulting in his friends and the public that they would have infinitely preferred him to any of his rivals. The sincerity of this mode